able!?" "Please," the receptionist replied. "Agent Bacard does not appreciate being disturbed." "Sir," Charlie said, stopping before the four-person security desk, "I am here on official business regarding an ongoing case, and I have to personally speak to Agent Merriweather in her office." "Your reputation precedes you," the receptionist said. "Perhaps I should prove that I have a personal reputation with her before she agrees to see me." "As you wish, Agent Bacard, but your appointment is now past three o'clock and if you wish to speak to Agent Merriweather, she will no longer be engaged." Charlie knew he was bluffing. This was just an act to convince Merriweather to see him. But also, Charlie now realized that maybe she was indeed heading out of the Bureau, or at least this rotation, soon. Could they get to her before she left? # PART III "Love is a fancy of the mind, An idolatrous fancy; I do not love you. I marvel At your bounty." —Henry Vaughan, "The Conference" # "Tell me about this undercover assignment," Merriweather asked from her desk. Charlie did not want to tell her. If Merriweather thought he was going to blow the entire thing, there was no telling where he was going. She felt as though he could escape from anywhere. "I'm not actually doing anything undercover," he said. "Yeah, you are. You don't believe me?" "No. I mean, you're right. I'm undercover. It's just that undercover for me means... different things." "Different things than what?" "I do things that I don't want my family or superiors to know about." "Or me?" Merriweather asked. "Or you. You can go too." "Me? Always with the plots, huh? I'm not getting into it. Not anything major." "If I'm really undercover, you don't know who I'm with. And if I'm really undercover, you don't know what I'm doing." "Y'know what," she said, "I want to trust you here. I want to believe that this undercover thing is just

Experience the hospital as a dangerous, trapped but also completely fascinating place to explore. Find the order in everything you see, in order to understand what happened in this place all those years ago. Meet Alex, who is a disturbed young boy - one of thousands of the "minor" patients, who were abandoned and forgotten by all. This way, you will follow your own path through the dark corridors and rooms and achieve the original goal - to find the secret report before Michael finds you. Explore the entire maze, from the basement to the top floor of the building, and collect all the necessary documents and tools, acquired during your stay. Begin your journey - take a deep look into the thoughts of Alex - with every step of your journey is getting closer to the truth. Each step is challenging and demanding and you will be forced to use your thinking skills in a real way. You will be confronted with dangerous situations and difficult puzzles, where the solution is almost always found in blood. Will you be successful in your quest for the truth? Only you can decide. WARNING: This video game can cause photosensitive epilepsy in susceptible people. Reasonable limitation of the gaming audience is recommended. ABOUT THIS GAME: Imbued with fear, torture, blood, a long-abandoned hospital turns into a place of lost souls ... The hospital is a creature that feeds on the energy of the living, absorbing it quickly and greedily. Once inside its walls, he will do everything to make you lose yourself forever. Once historian and journalist Michael received a letter by e-mail from an unknown addressee, with an interesting story about a hospital that worked in the post-war period. Information about it is still carefully hidden and is classified as "top secret". In order to check the interesting material, Michael goes to the coordinates indicated in the letter in order to personally verify and make a sensational report. You have to find out all the secrets of this place. Imbued with fear, torture, blood, a long-abandoned hospital turns into a place of lost souls ...
