In 1993, it was bundled as part of Adobe Photoshop Elements. In January 2000, it was made available in 28 languages and was renamed Adobe Photoshop CS (Creative Suite) after Adobe acquired Macromedia who had created Dreamweaver, which was bundled in Photoshop CS. The CS6 upgrade brought additional new features such as GPU acceleration for a vastly improved performance, content aware fill, photo retouching tools, high quality brushes and gradients, RGB color management, layer masks and adjustments, and more. Photoshop is the standard image-editing tool for digital photographers. It is capable of a wide range of advanced manipulation tasks. It combines layers and masks in a way that allows multiple effects and selections to be created within a single image. Although the interface is not as clean and easily navigable as some competitors' offerings, it is both highly flexible and powerful. Photoshop is often praised for its after-editing tools that improve the overall appearance of an image. Adobe Photoshop is available for the Macintosh and Windows platforms, as well as for mobile devices such as mobile phones and tablets. Q: Jquery add two classes to element when one (or more) of its classes are present is it possible to add two classes to an element when one of the classes of that element is present? something like the code below, where the .presented class will be added as well to the element if its class is present. This is a very simplified example of what I'm trying to achieve in my real app: I'm using this code to listen for the document.readystate changing to 'complete': function check(act) { if (act == 'complete') { $('.layer1').addClass('presented'); $('.layer1').removeClass('presented'); $('.layer2').addClass('presented'); $('.layer2').removeClass('presented'); $('.layer3').addClass('presented'); $('.layer3').removeClass('presented'); } } $(document).ready(function () { check('complete'); window.onload=check('complete'); }); A: You can use .hasClass(className) with the following regex: var className = "layer[1-4]"; $('.layer[1-4]').addClass('presented'); This adds the classes to any element which has a class beginning with layer and ending with 1-4. To remove them: var className = "layer[1-4]"; $('.layer[1-4]').removeClass('presented'); This removes the classes from elements which have the classes. The regex matches any element which has classes beginning with layer and ending with 1-4. ; "" "" a) W refers to the evaluator and b) M refers to the model. "" "" mlp = MLP(10, has_bias=False)
